A CANADIAN BOMB-SHELL.

The Canadian papers—that is, those published and conducted by Englishmen, with all prejudices of the aristocratic nationality of the Times, are the most brilliant sheets printed at present. We have not a tithe of the wit and humor in the smallest part of the circulation of the smallest part of the influence of Punch, Punching House Square; but things do not suffice to put Canadians. They strut and bluster and gurgle with as lordly an air as if running their beastly lucubrations as prate as boastfully as the subscribers of the contributors of the British Empire.—They only strive to imitate in their style the writers of America, but they caricature all their work as clumsily as possible. They throw their cartload at a time, and the missiles sent, that are not set aside to escape contempt, are of such effluvia alone as the most obnoxious and most loathsome of the Commercial Advertiser, which almost behooves us to express the propriety of its title. Every article in the editorial columns, it matter has duly analyzed and its impudence and its government is doing [illegible] Cabinet with England, [illegible] to engage all its [illegible] dominions. Senators are all [illegible] Legislative chamber [illegible] influence decide the citizens, and [illegible] money and arms to [illegible] Prime South accepts [illegible] demonstrations.—[illegible] war with England [illegible] Kansas.
