THE DAILY BEE.

SUPPLEMENT MORNING, DEC. 12.

The Steamer Star had yesterday from Vera Cruz. She left that city the preceding Wednesday.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Already the part pressed in the immediate vicinity of the President's message, and Secretary's digest and statistical exhibit, are filled with comments relative to different portions. On their subject Mr. Buchanan informs us truly, "I have thought it proper to make no allusion to the various topics which have arisen since the commencement of the present session of Congress, and which are now pending before the country." He therefore does not in anything, either submitted in opinion, or simply progress, or impugn our interpretation of a subject, than the declaration of Brief opinion, relative to the violation of the liberty of citizens. Nor confirm the conduct in this respect of the Executive of the Union, nor the declaration of Brief opinion, that the government has the power of such interposing as will be sufficient, in reasoning our citizens from committing such outrages." Hard upon the slaughter of three white noncombatant and peaceful Northern sympathizers, will President has furnished a practical demonstration of his sincerity by the removal of Mr. Calhoun, the United States District Attorney in Kay County, Kansas, from the task of diligence in preventing the departure of Wm. R. Walker and his Nicaraguan expedition.

Now, we are very decidedly in favor of the Administration of Nicaragua. We believe that Walker was the lawful chief executive of that republic, and that he was most wickedly thrown by treachery and in the nefarious tyrannies of the lackey of a Costa Rican army. We hold that Walker has an undoubted right to return thither with whatever force he can muster, and responsible himself of the authority of which he was forcibly and unjustly supervised. If, therefore, the present administration should be reserved of Commodore's proclamation. The Belmont brigade had been sent to the Bay of Nicaragua would, after a marked censorship. Yet there is no doubt whatever that the representations lodged in by Mr. Buchanan are intended for the late President of Nicaragua, and that his movements are characterized as lawless proceedings.

We may well exclaim with the Mobile Tribune, What a change has come over the spirit of Mr. Buchanan's dreams since the famous Conference at Ostend! In the manifesto drawn up by the Hays of Wheatland on that occasion, and signed by him, together with Messrs. Soulé and Mason, he sentinel positions infinitely less tenable than those on which Gen. Walker bases his return to Nicaragua. Mr. Buchanan then boldly enunciated the dogma that Spain had no right to have Cuba; that the acquisition of the island was essential to the development of the strength and resources of the United States, and to our defense against foreign invasion; that Spain ought to be made to sell Cuba, and that if she persisted in refusing a liberal offer—why we ought to take it forcibly, whenever its possession should appear indispensable to our safety. We further brought that this line of policy constituted the true, time full-fledged and full-grown. Mr. Buchanan was willing at that time to wrest Cuba by violence from the dominion of Spain, provided the latter declined selling the Queen of the Antilles: but now he regards the attempt of the lawful President of Nicaragua to restore that power with which he was invested by popular suffrage, and from which he was expelled by foreign invaders, as a crime of the first magnitude.

The key to this wonderful metamorphosis is plain enough. When James Buchanan put forth the Ostend manifesto, he was ambitious of becoming President, and, like a true politician, he pitched his tone so as to catch the slavering ear of the progressive Democracy, and especially of the South. Now he is President, and, faithful to the custom of his predecessors, he wishes timid and conservative, is very fearful of offending Great Britain, becomes hugely pacific in his intentions, desires above all things to constitute the good wishes of his national Democratic friends of the North, and thinks nothing so comfortable as quiet inertness and gentle mediocrity. The slightest sympathy with Wm. Walker might bring down upon him the thunderous invective of the London Times, and the virulent abuse of the Northern press—with which mem of hardy temperaments and force of character regard as "tritus light as dirt" but which to your meek, hesitating politician are knaves with portentous magalinds, and geniuses of the disturbance of that drowsy calm in which he loves to dwell.

THE CHINESE JUGGLERS.—Under the head of amusements it will be seen that celebrated Chinese artists and jugglers have arrived in our city, and will commence a series of their wonderful performances on Monday evening next, at Armory Hall. We have heard much of the astonishing and incomprehensible feats of these magicians.

GIFTS, GIFTS, GIFTS.—The wheel of Fortune at Lennox's, No. 78 St. Charles street, presents prizes at every revolution. Books are sold there at low prices, and yet every book carries with it a gift worth from 25 cents to $100. See the advertisement in another column.

V. A. MASSON.—Our readers will perceive that a new fancy grocery and liquor store has been established by Mr. Masson, at the corner of Royal and Orleans streets. It will be invariably kept well stocked with fine wines, family provisions, &c., &c.

We are indebted to the Hon. A. V. Brown, Postmaster-General, for a copy of his annual report.

PASSED TAMPICO.—The schooner W. W. Hardware, Captain Church, from Tampico on the 3d instant, arrived here yesterday. She brings $27,657 86 in specie, consigned as follows:

Puig & Avendano $10,000, Caballero & Hernando $5,791 36, Schmidt & Co. $4,026, Manuel Payro $3,500, E. J. Forstall $1,000 56, Cramer & Co. $1,100, J. W. Zacharie & Co. $1,000, Goldenbow & Lesparre 2000, Bernard Turpin $400. Total $27,657 86.

The Brooklyn fugitive slave case, says the New York Times, was brought to a close yesterday, and resulted in the holding to bail of the following named persons for conspiracy and kidnapping: John Jackson, John Cowen, Timothy K. Mason and Thomas Lawler, special policemen, and Thomas McNulty, whose house was made a prison of. On the first charge the accused were held to bail in the sum of $1,000, and on the second $500. Thomas Dobson and Samuel Lee and are the headsmen. The fugitive is safe in Canada.

A meeting was held at Leavenworth, Kansas, on the 21st ultimo, at which resolutions were adopted similar to those passed at the meeting at Lecompton, noticed yesterday. It is stated that a whole new constitution is now actually being formed throughout the Territory to oppose any effort to carry into effect the result of the deliberations of the Constitutional Convention.

The American Geographical and Statistical Society held its annual meeting of the University of New York on the 2d instant. A report of the proceedings during the past year was read by Archibald Russell, Esq., and officers for the ensuing year were elected. Dr. Hawks was re-elected President, and John C. Fremont chosen First Vice-President.

There was a meeting of the Democratic General Committee of New York on the evening of the 2d inst., at which Messrs. Schram & Cozzens were expelled for the high crime and misdemeanor of opposing Wood for Mayor.

WRECK OF THE U. S. MAIL STEAMER WELAKA.—The Savannah papers contain the following:

The Welaka, Capt. Mathews, left Jacksonville, Fla., at 1 P. M., on Thursday, the 3d inst., for this port. On crossing the St. John's bar she struck heavily, about 7 o'clock, some part of the machinery gave way, which compelled Capt. McNulty then to run her ashore and save her. A high sea was running at the time, and the steamer struck heavily. Fortunately the sea on the breakers, which she passed over, thumped heavily for three hours. At length a hawser was passed to her and she gave way, parting at the first touch. The Chester (Capt. Gilchrist) was then in readiness and came to her assistance, and succeeded in towing her off. The Welaka then proceeded to Fernandina and took those of the passengers and mail on board who had been left there yesterday.

The Welaka is to learn that no lives were lost, and that the passengers speak in the highest terms of the conduct of Capt. McNulty in the hour of peril as it might have proved. A correspondent writes to the Savannah Republican from Fernandina:

"The Welaka was struck by a heavy sea about 7 o'clock on the morning of January 7, and was run on shore to avoid a worse disaster. She was got off again at high water, and proceeded on her way to Savannah, but was compelled to put in here for repairs. She will be ready to leave in a few days."

The Welaka is a new boat, and formerly known as the Governor Milton, and all of her appointments are of the most elegant and substantial character. She was recently purchased by the Government for the Florida mail service, and is commanded by Capt. McNulty, who has been long and favorably known as one of the most skillful navigators of the waters in which he has been employed.

The following ship Call to Hamburg appears from our well informed correspondent quite in point and appropriate:

EXTRAORDINARY DEVELOPMENTS IN REGARD TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF PHILADELPHIA.

It is known to most of our readers that the Finance Committee of Councils has been lately investigating the business of the Board of Health of this city. With reference to some embezzlements and other offenses, which it was supposed had been committed by some of its members. The examination has been laborious and the results are most astounding. The committee have discovered that there has been going on, for how long a time it is impossible to say, a system of fraud wholly beyond any thing that could ever have been suspected. The funds of the city have been obtained by outrageous means, and to an amount that cannot be ascertained; but the developments made by the committee will probably explain to a great measure the extraordinary drain on the city treasury and the causes for the continual failure of the revenue to meet the expenses.

The Board of Health of Philadelphia consists of twenty-four members, one from each Ward. Their names are as follows:

Wards.	Wards.
1 Charles Smith,	13 Robert Lindsay.
2 John McGuigan,	14 A C Roberts,
3 Lewis Waples,	15 Wm Osborne, M D,
4 Thomas H Town,	16 Albert D Bilman,
5 Joseph B Good, M D,	17 Lewis Sorrenson,
6 Cornelius H Mennis,	18 Benj Rennet Sawyer,
7 David Wall,	19 John O'Brien,
8 John R Wur, M D,	20 Mathew Hays,
9 P G Frazier,	21 John Marlin,
10 Gavin H Woodward,	22 Wm M Squire, M D,
11 Wm B Griffith,	23 D B Wilson,
12 Philip De Young, M D,	24 Wm Gallaher, M D.

Of course, among these names are a number of gentlemen who are totally above suspicion. The fraud has been committed by a few, who seemed to regulate things pretty much as they pleased. The names of the offenders and the character of their offenses will be fully exposed in the report of the committee.

We understand that it convicts certain members of the Board of forgery in numerous instances, and of every variety of fraud by which the money of the city could be appropriated to their own use. Lots of malpractices was for a member to take the names of a committee and present a bill to the Board for goods said to have been purchased for the Board, when no such goods had ever been ordered or obtained. The Board would take the bill, and a check would be drawn in the name of the house from whom it was pretended the goods were bought, the endorsement of the house being of course forged also. The money would go into the pockets of the skillful negotiator of the precious business.

In this way it is believed that many thousands of dollars have been drawn from the swindled treasury of the city of Philadelphia. There have been also many other varieties of fraud practiced, which the report will explain fully. But it is safe to say that in every conceivable way, where public money has gone into the hands of the Board of Health, there has been swindling.

The Consolidation act contains provisions which, it was thought, would prevent the perpetration of frauds in the different departments of the city government. But they evidently have failed and the Board of Health has been the first organization to, greatly, one, we trust—where the frauds have been carried on in defiance of the law.

The Committee of Finance in Councils, we are assured, have made the investigation with great industry and zeal, and without showing favor to any of the parties concerned. Politics, also, have not entered into the investigation, and they have conducted their labors with the single object of exposing crime and arresting the infamous system of fraud that they have discovered.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Medical Correction.

To the Editors of the New York Tribune:

SIR—I notice in the Semi-Weekly Tribune, of the 17th, an article quoted from an "exchange paper," making some disparaging remarks on the singular growth out of a leg of a child in this place.

It is time that when this article is running the rounds of the press the truth should be known. It is unjust to Prof. Stanley (late of the Medical College of Geneva,) and to the medical profession in this part of the country, to represent that either the Professor or we, any of us, are so very silly as to believe that any actual vegetable grew out of the leg of this boy. The picture does us great injustice to speak of "orange flowers or roses flowers" as a reality. I may say that a diseased leg is like a carrot or turnip in shape, and if any one should say that I had diseased made a man's leg a carrot or turnip, he would misrepresent my language grossly.

The facts are, that out of a preternaturally large leg grew a fungoid stem; and, when partly grown, the end of it bore a slight resemblance to a single compact bud just about to open. When at full growth it had some resemblance to a China aster flower or dahlia just about to open, but the growth was animal blood circulated in the abnormal growth.

This animal growth is now preserved in alcohol, and will be submitted to several medical societies. It is in vain, in my own language, a sea-weed. A stem a few inches long, where it expands like a mushroom, or end of a sea-weed, is a smooth circular space. Then outside of this circular space has fibers like sea-weed, with the minute bloodvessels giving color through the thin animal tissue.

Now call it what you please, sea-weed, mushroom, China aster or orange bud, it is a rare form of a very common disease, the "bloody fungus," known for centuries to the medical world.

I believe it a rare species, however, and well worth figuring and describing in our medical journals. I have given the public facts of this contemptible rumor, and let a matter of fact stand as it is, a rare form of animal malignant growth.

SAMUEL J. PARKER.

Rhica, Tompkins co., N. Y., Nov. 18, 1857.

APPLETON OR BARKLOW.—Mr. Nathan Appleton, of Boston, has issued a revised edition of his former pamphlet on the currency. He says:

A repeal of the usury laws, so far as relates to notes of hand and bills of exchange, similar to that which took place in England in 1833, would undoubtedly have a highly beneficial effect in lessening the violence of the fluctuations in the currency. The pertinacity with which all the States clung to the usury laws, the remnant of the old feudal opinion that the people cannot be trusted to take care of their own interests, is remarkable—especially after the example has been set by the supreme law of nature, which leaves the rate on banks of issue, we find the testimony of Mussel. Norman, Tooke and Lloyd uniform in favor of the effect of the modifications made in the law, in favor of the violence of a revulsion to the money market.

A bankrupt law applicable to banks would undoubtedly be the most efficient of measures for preventing suspensions of specie payments, and keeping banks within reasonable limits. Such a law, to go into effect twelve months, would be the most effective of measures for restoring and regulating the currency—to apply to a combined suspension of payments for thirty days. Conditional provisions have been suggested, but without much apparent force. Apparently nothing in the power of Congress would be so decidedly effectual as the establishment of such a law.

The conclusions of Mr. Appleton as to the basis of circulation are as follows:

1. The only proper basis of bank circulation is the capital employed, with the proper apportionment to the business of banking.

2. Public security requires that the issue of a bank should be a small proportion to its capital.

3. Bank notes to constitute a modern medium of general circulation, must be payable on demand, payable at the bank issuing them, and payable in the money of account.

4. The profits derivable from the employment of bank money are a fair compensation for the risk and labor of banking.

5. The power of banks to issue their notes, payable on demand, at the place where issued, in the money of account, with the profits on the same, are sufficient inducements to the employment of capital in banking, to the extent required by the business of the country.

6. The power of banks to issue their notes, payable on demand, at the place where issued, in the money of account, with the profits on the same, are sufficient inducements to the employment of capital in banking, to the extent required by the business of the country.

7. The power of banks to issue their notes, payable on demand, at the place where issued, in the money of account, with the profits on the same, are sufficient inducements to the employment of capital in banking, to the extent required by the business of the country.

8. The power of banks to issue their notes, payable on demand, at the place where issued, in the money of account, with the profits on the same, are sufficient inducements to the employment of capital in banking, to the extent required by the business of the country.

9. The power of banks to issue their notes, payable on demand, at the place where issued, in the money of account, with the profits on the same, are sufficient inducements to the employment of capital in banking, to the extent required by the business of the country.

Modern versus Ancient Discoveries.

The art of making guano-ader is still people, they say, and the ancient method is the best. Take a cask, a fish duly circumcised, and handed down to us entirely. Now if an invention is still people is to be believed, we think that upon the principle of fresh fish ought to preserve as much, if not more historic remorse.

Now, in this juxtaposition for the purpose of showing, in a practical manner, the true principle of doing good and not evil to our fellow-creatures. When and the best remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, &c., is Brown's Bronchial Troches. Sold by all druggists.

RENOVAL.

CHARLES LEVY,

BURGHOF PERFUMER,

HAS REMOVED

From No. 100 Royal street to No. 106 Royal street, between Conti and St. Louis streets.

BROADWAY OF CORNER OF HOUSTON STREET, NEW YORK.

THE above Hotel, which, for years past, has been universally known as the favorite resort of Southern and Western planters, merchants, and others visiting the city of New York, has undergone a thorough renovation during the present season, and is now equipped in a manner unsurpassed by any other Hotel in the city for the half ten years, and have never had with one single exception, a dissatisfied guest. Having now upwards of 300 sleeping apartments, and a table supplied with the best the market affords, I trust to merit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended to the establishment.

AMERICAN

AROMATIC BITTER CORDIAL

THIS CORDIAL, which has been recently compounded, is the most economical cause and restorative known to cases of general debility, nervousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, &c. It invigorates the system and increases the appetite, and is therefore a valuable tonic for persons of a delicate constitution. Said Cordial is prepared with great economy to the invalid and the aged, by following the directions given. It is composed of roots herbs: and its agreeable flavor has induced many of the most delicate females to use it as a beverage.

Sold by druggists generally. Depot, 83 Camp street, corner Customhouse, New Orleans.
