THE DAILY BEE. MONDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 1 THE NORTHERN MAIL failed yesterday from

The most important piece of financial intelligence which has been received here since the outbreak of the monetary revulsion, is the news of the resumption of camp payments by the New York banks, to be followed by the same movement on the part of he banks of Beston. In the course of a few Engished banks, save the hoppiessey inservers, will be paying species.

This is not merely good news for New York, but for the entire country, and pourliarly fravorable for the commerce of New Orleans. A moment's reflection will demonstrate this. The position of the banks of New Orleans, though highly honorable and upright, has been of extreme delicacy and difficulty. With their vaults overflowing with the precious metals, their circulation reduced to the minimum point of contraction, waxing stronger and stronger every day—so completely panophised and protected from danger that in ordinary times they might have expanded several millions with entire safety, these institutions have, notwithstanding, considered themselves bound by the dictates of prudence and circumspection to restrict accommodations within the tion to restrict accommodations within the narrowest possible limits consistent with the bligation of extending reasonable indulgence ausing to examine the question whether our banks have not manifested an excess of caution bordering on timidity, and have not in their laudable determination to provide gainst contingent peril, subjected the comments, we may say in general terms that the policy of the banks was the result of a thorough knowledge of financial matters. New Orleans was the only important specie-pay convertible into cash. It was therefore ap prehended, not without reason, that an attempt by the banks of this city to increas attempt by the banks of this city to increase their comulation largely by a liberal resort to accommodations, would necessarily be succeeded by a return of their bills to their counters, with a demand for specie. As long as New York could not pay cash, New Orleans could not afford to be drained of her gold for the benefit of other points. Hence the banks of New Orleans thought themselves justified in declining to adopt a course which would probably have thrown back upon them a material amount of any marked increase in their corrolation. increase in their circulation.

However plausible or valid these objections may have been, they can no longer be urged. However plausible or valid these objections may have been they can no longer be urged. The resumtion of cash payments by the banks of New York relieves those of New Orleans from the apprehension of a demand of regular interaction. Our banks have it now in their power textend opportune and to the merchants of New Orleans without any fear of imparing public c inflence, or of producing a run upon them. Lock at the last weeking at the time of the power textend opportune and to the merchants of New Orleans without any fear of imparing public c inflence, or of producing a run upon them.
