absolute oxclusion of sectarianism. The curriculum of study will extend through every branch of learning and science—its doors will be open to students of every name and sect—its conduct will be catholic in the very highest sense of the word. We submit, therefore, that with this enlightened, comprehenaive and theral direction, there can be no pretext for any one to decline contributing towards this laudable enterprise in the proportion of his means.

It remains for us to stale that the intention of the founders of the University is to secure rmanent endowment, so that the Instit support, and win to the restricted in the application of meral discipline by the dread of displacating and losing any of the immates, nor will its professors be compelled to reity on the varying and uncertain amount of fees. Reveral members of the different diocesses are now in our city, and will, we understand, apply to leading catzens for such contributions as they may feel disposed to offer. We are certain that the proverbial generoity and public spirit of Louistans will respond liberally and cordially to their appeals. Lou-and public spirit of Louisiana will respond liberally and cordially to their appeals. Louisiana, opulent, particite, high minded and truir Southers in sentiment, should scorn to permit any other State to surpass her in the monificent paironage of an risatitution which is destined at no distant period to become the pride and the glory of our section of country.

Magnificent views of the saland of CCrathrough the politeness of Mr. G. Dupuy, No. 48 Ruyal street, we were year-day enabled to examine a series of eight very large and superb lithingraphic views of the Laland of Cutah, including sketches of Havana, Matanzas, Santtago de Cuta, Cardenna, Trinidad and the valley of Yumuri. It is impossible to goney an idea of the exquisite beauty and fidelity of these views to any one who has not inspected them. They are pronounced, in an artistic respect, far superior to any productions of the kind ever exhibited. It will be seen by the advertisement in our columns that an agent for the sale of these splendid lithographs will shortly canvass the city for subscribers to the series. In the meanwhile all who take pleasure in works of high taste and excellence may examine some of the specimens at Mr. Dupuy's.
