MR. SEWARD'S SPEECH.

In speculating some time since on the future course and prospects of the Black Republican party, we expressed the opinion that Wm. H. SEWARD had ceased to occupy his former prominent position as a Presidential aspirant, and that he would probably be discarded by the Chicago Convention in favor of some candidate of less positive and ultra sentiments. The "irrepressible conflict" doctrine of Mr. SEWARD, the development of which preceded by a few months its practical illustration by JOHN BROWN at Harper's Ferry, created so strong a reaction against the anti-slavery fanaticism as to admonish them of the supervening necessity of a qualification of their tenets, if they would cherish even a hope of success in the Presidential contest of 1860. Hence the cold shoulder which has been turned towards their quondam High Priest, and hence, too, the caressing and flattering advances made by their principal organs towards BATES, of Missouri, as that gentleman is currently believed to be the only half a Black Republican, half a Conservative, in his experiences and non-sectic a polarism to allow expediency to ride rough shod over him without resistance. He perhaps as well as any other man in the country understands the art of trimming his sails to catch the popular breeze. He perceived the direction which Black Republican sentiment was taking, and hastened to meet it halfway. Accordingly we find that after careful and deliberate preparation, Senator SEWARD has contributed his potent influence towards the remodeling of the Black Republican platform. To the surprise of those who were not in the secret, the honorable Senator, in his late stalwart speech, eschewed doctrines which virtually nullify the intense abolitionism of his Rochester harangue, and render Black Republicanism somewhat less detestable. Thus, for example, he denied the equality of the negro with the white man, under our Government—a theory which will undoubtedly carry grief and dismay to the bosoms of GARRISON, WENDELL PHILLIPS and the Rev. Mr. CHEEVER. Moreover he denied that John Brown's foray was to be regarded or defended. These disavowals and disclaimers are certainly at variance with the fiery zeal and unqualified anti-slavery sentiments of the Rochester speech, and we desire to place them on record, as commanding Mr. SEWARD to one of policy very different from that heretofore pursued by him.

Touching the sincerity of the language very reasonable doubts may be entertained. When we behold a Senator who is in the safe line of precedent for political promotion, changing radically his conclusions in respect to the cardinal principles of his party—at one time advocating and defending the most extreme opinions, and at another repudiating and diluting them almost to the point of, when, too, we remember that during the period elapsing between the utterance of these violent doctrines and their quasi repudiation, events had occurred of a nature greatly to imperil the fortunes of the party with which he was associated, and calculated to daunt from it all the timid and all the conservative, the inference is surely justifiable that the Senator, in changing his views, sought chiefly his own safety, in thus concealing himself to the altered circumstances in which his party were placed. This is indeed altogether probable. Mr. SEWARD is by no means desirous of being established by its fate or Cæsar. He can be as flexible as they. If the party would thunder, he can be a very BRAHMAN; seeing that the more it would terrify the South, the more silent they prefer more quiet demonstrations, why he, too, can roar as gently as any sucking dove. The conscience of a Presidential candidate is the most elastic object in nature. It can contract almost into invisibility, or may expand so as to cover incommensurable space. We suspect the article in SEWARD's possession is double-refined Indian rubber.

Nevertheless we are still inclined to the belief that Mr. SEWARD's subtlety and tact will secure for double him to recover the ground he has lost. The Chicago Convention will be loth to entrust the fate of the party to one whose illusions was so soon followed by an act of courage clearly traceable to the dangerous precepts established in the Rochester speech. The people will judge him less by present pronouncements extorted by the exigencies of the hour, than by sentiments uttered while free from the slightest constraint. We think the Black Republicans have committed themselves against leaders of the Seward school, because they are discerning enough to see that under them defeat will be inevitable. The South, we imagine, could ask for nothing better than to behold WM. H. SEWARD nominated as the Abolition candidate. The blunder would be perfectly certain to ensure the complete secession of his party next November. But the enemy does not intend to commit so signal an error. The summer at Chicago will most probably be some such having a faint odor of intolerably about him—for the purpose of conciliating tender Southern and weak Northern ears. We may be mistaken, but that is our opinion.

VARIETIES MUSEUM.—One of the most pleasant and attractive places of resort we visit of is Vanorbile's collection of wax figures and other curiosities, in St Charles street, near Poydras. Her establishment has been recently enriched by various interesting novelties. In the waxwork department there is the admirable group representing the taking of the Saviour, and the life like portraits of Chrowstone Brown and the companions of iniquity. Among the curiosities are just received from Europe a superb cylinder organ of gigantic dimensions, which is so arranged as to do the duty of a whole band. It performs quite a number of marches, waltzes, polkas &c., with the richest conceivable melody and harmony. Everybody should go to hear the magnificent instrument.

A CARD FROM MR. GEORGE SOULE.—Mr. George Soule, Principal of Soule's Commercial College of New Orleans, publishes in our columns a card of a rather startling nature. It seems that some unknown person planned a deep laid scheme in the expectation that Mr. Soule should be the victim of it. The latter charges a citizen of our city, who is the Principal of another Commercial College, with being the author of said scheme. A legal investigation will no doubt take place and afford the party accused an opportunity of defending himself.

Mr Monchanber has published a little pamphlet, entitled "Medical and Surgical Excises in the United States, Specialities, Empiricism, &c." We have looked over this opusculum with considerable pleasure. It abounds in good sense and careful observation, conveyed in a humorous and lively style. We recommend it to general perusal.

We are indebted to the Grand Secretary, Henry C. Bell, for a neat little volume containing an interesting historical synopsis and reports of officers of the Board of Directors of Odd Fellows Hall—including the Session a reports of boards from its establishment to December, 1859.

MAP MAKER.—We are indebted to P. P. Werlein, No 5 Canal street, for the following name: The Wichita March," a very well written and expressive composition. "Polka Caractéristic," a charming air-new, by Cardona.

Our thanks are due the committee for tickets of invitation to the grand ball to be given by the Hebrew Benevolent Association at Odd Fellows' Hall, on the 14th inst., in commemoration of the 18th anniversary of the Association

CHEAP SALE.—We call the attention of the trade to the sale of Clothing, Boots, Shoes, &c., to take place to-day, at 10 o'clock A. M. at House & Lonsdale's auction room, No 80 Chartres street. Terms at sale.

TEXAS.—We have Texas papers of a late date. The Galveston News says:

A private letter from our friend Sam Mather, dated Gabriel Mills, February 27th, says the country was just alive with a mile or two in full of Indians, who are committing depredations daily. Last Saturday three were forty seen on the Clear Fork of Colorado, and the day before yesterday is there a band seen in which there is not one or more white men. The settlements above us are quiet. Mr Mather says, are being broken up, and he expects soon again to be on the outside of civilization, though he hardly thinks the Indians will venture so far from the breaks as this place. Companies are being raised in the neighborhood, as the Rangers afford no protection whatever, the Indians being all on the side of them. To whatever cause this deplorable state of things may be attributable, we think our citizens on the frontier will begin to see at last that the charge they were so anxious to make in our State Executive has not been of such advantage to them as they anticipated.

WRECK OF THE NEW WORLD.—Strange and Mysterious Affair.—On Thursday, the 8th inst., Mr John Severs found floating in the river opposite this place part of the upper cabin of a steamboat. He went on the wreck and made an effort to secure it, but finding this impossible, he examined it and found parts torn up, as though from explosion, and evidences of fire. Mr Severs removed what he could from the wreck—a safe, some dry goods, hardware, etc.—which he deposited at the warehouse of Messrs. Barlow & Bergamin, on the levee. In the goods was found a lot of printed cards for the "consignee and harbor pilot of New World, T McCullough, master, which leads to the belief that the wreck must be of that boat. Where the accident happened, how, and who was aboard is all, as yet, a mystery.—Baton Rouge Gazette.

There are 33 States, with 66 Senators and 237 Representatives, making 303 electoral votes. This is the number of votes that will be cast at the Charleston Convention—152 is a majority, and 303 vote the ticket.

FIVE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ST JOHNS, N. F., March 10.—The steamship Nova Scotian, of the Canadian line, from Liverpool bound for Portland, arrived at this port yesterday, having put in here short of coal.

The Nova Scotian sailed from Liverpool on Wednesday, the 22d ultimo, and reached at Queenstown on Thursday, the 23d, bringing telegraphic advices from Liverpool and London five days later than those received by the Africa at New York.

The ship Lena, from Havre bound for New Orleans, was wrecked near Cherbourg, on the 20th ult. She had on board 98 passengers, whom, together with the crew, numbering 22, were all lost but two Further by the Nova Scotian.—St. Johns, N. F., March 10.—The Nova Scotian's advices announce a change in the sailing of the Cunard steamers from Liverpool to Boston, via Halifax.

The steamship Niagara was advertised to sail from Liverpool on the 25th inst., instead of the America, which was detained for some slight repairs.

The new steamship City of Albany arrived out on the 21st, having experienced head winds and heavy gales during the most of the passage, and especially on the coast of England, where considerable damage has been done to shipping.

Loss of the Steamer Osborne.—The steamer Osborne, a regular passenger packet running between Dublin and London, while on her regular trip for London, came in collision with the schooner Hawke, in the gale before mentioned, making almost a complete wreck of the steamer, and so disabling her that she went down in twenty minutes after the accident occurred.

The disaster occurred on the 19th ult. The steamer had a large number of passengers aboard, some forty or fifty of whom were supposed to have been killed or drowned.

Affairs in Italy—It is reported, by recent advices from Turin, that King Victor Emanuel is about to sanction an address to the Sicilians, who are being so cruelly persecuted, encouraging them to oppose by force the unjust oppression under which they suffer.

The fact that the greatest activity prevails in all departments of the Piedmontese army and navy gives confidence to the Central and Southern Italian people that Victor Emanuel is about to actively co-operate in the amelioration of their condition.

In consequence of these indications much excitement prevails in Southern Italy, and large numbers are anxious to volunteer in the struggle to free their unhappy country from its oppressors.

A report has been currently circulated from Paris that another plot has been discovered against the life of the Emperor Napoleon, and that many are secretly being arrested on suspicion of being engaged in it.

A telegram from Madrid announces that the Spanish army in Morocco have gained another victory over the Moors. The Spanish army were encamped before the town of Nellie's Rock, and were attacked by the Moors in large force, with a view of driving the Spaniards from their position, but were repulsed with heavy loss. The Spanish loss in the engagement was also very severe, they having contained a loss of 333 killed, 146 wounded and 21 missing.

LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

Account of the Overland Mail—St. Louis, March 10—The overland California mail has arrived at Malley's, the terminus of the San Francisco telegraph line, with advices from the Pacific to the 24th ultimo.

The business at San Francisco closed dull. All kinds of goods have slightly declined except crushed sugars, which have an advancing tendency. There were from 1000 to 1200 barrels sold at 12 to 13c. per pound

Dr. Chase, who was arrested on the charge of fraud in furnishing the mail with adulterated acids, received a trial, but the jury failed to agree.

In the California Legislature the resolutions asking Congress to dissolve the injunction upon the working of the Almaden mines were passed by a large majority.

Several silver mines have been discovered in the western part of the Territory of Utah.

In consequence of her suffering further injury discovered in Cincinnati, a small town situated on the border of the Abaz, in the Grisser moon was abandoned, and other localities, together with the great excitement at Carson Valley, excites great apprehension that a large number of miners will leave the California diggings for these new mines.

The Legislature of Washington Territory has appointed delegates to meet in a convention at Vancouver's for the purpose of taking into consideration the necessity of constructing a North ern Pacific Railway.

Great dissatisfaction is felt in British Columbia against Governor Douglass in consequence of his having imposed a tax of five dollars on mule loads of provisions taken to Fraser's river.

Mr. Peterson made a motion to have the resolution referred to the Committee on Public Education.

Mr. Penrce rose and said, What is the necessity of the resolution if the work can be done without cost? Mr. Pearce said a fine press had been bought by the Superintendent of Public Education has no control over it; it is under the control of the Superintendent of the Asylum.

Mr. Salomon obtained possession of the floor, and said, if the resolution passes, by the time we get back next year I think that, from the specimens already shown, it will be necessary to use the press for the publication of public documents, and by so doing the State will annually save from thirty to forty thousand dollars.

Mr. Delaney moved that it be adopted. Carried.

A Card.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The community are already aware that Mr. Rufus Dalbear, the Principal of the Dalbear Commercial College of the city of New Orleans, made on 26th day of January, 1860, an affidavit before the Recorder of the First District of New Orleans, charging therein that certain articles of advertisement of Prime Inks and sewing machine, asking, at the same time, for a search-warrant and the arrest of the parties having them in possession. As I was the person first and the articles in possession, of which I was the owner, I was the first summoned, I had to make my appearance in Court, where, upon due authentication, duly appointed that I had some by them and lawfully and honorably, and that they were not stolen from Mr. Rufus Dalbear, simply because Messrs. Venables and proclaiming as malicious prosecutions always are in an interested person, but, I took the highest action of this outrage, being convinced that Mr. Rufus Dalbear is too well known in this community to possibly be to injure any body by the signature of his name to my liberal to false affidavit. But, when a company starts his contract and all regard for a common decency, so far as to turn an anonymous letter signer of persecution, I decided not to defend them from their unjustifiable conduct and long suffering, will assume her protective rights under the laws of self defense.

Mr. Rufus Dalbear, finding himself unable to injure me under his own name, has since, I think, resorted to anonymous letters to the abolition press of the Union, and paid for copies to be sent to me, and forwarded, my exchanges and circulars, with the request of having them delivered to me. Among the papers I found in the Herald Freedom, Crescent, and Delta, of this city. Had the editors of the abolition press, through whose instrumentality I was to be injured, chosen to accept me my request, I have been as base and destitute of all principles as he, himself, and they have been, by this time, in the State prison. I feel compelled, time to act in self-defense, and in order to prove to the public that I am right when I say that Mr. Rufus Dalbear is a coward and a forger, I will publish the following letter and original order:

NO. 2.

LIBERTY OFFICE, 21 CORNHILL,
Boston, Feb. 10, 1860.

MR. URSON SICKLES—Sir: Your favor has been received at the office of a letter of that signature, but dated from Natchez, Miss., and signed "Fullerton," containing three one dollar bills. It was originally written for Wheeler & Wilson, and was addressed to them. Wheeler & Wilson's office is in the building in which the office of the Liberty is located. It was, however, addressed to the Liberty office. Had it been so addressed, it would have been delivered to you; and considering the plot for the ruin of your establishment, which the letter discloses, I suppose it would have been delivered to you.

I began by asking to have the Liberator send to your address. I then looked at a Catalogue of your Lockport sewing seat shops, which, by the way, ought to handle the best seat, of which the world is capable, and which I suppose you do handle, and that the machine, on the principle of the one described, should be free and the Delta of New Orleans.

"Then," the letter added, "will be right at the right time." I then looked at the letter to see what was to be started at seeing your institution noticed in a paper so long established as the Liberator, and found the name down upon you with the name and dog cry of Abolitionist. I then concluded that you would pay no more attention to me than you probably are—do to defend yourself against secret assassination, and I then concluded finally it may safely be a copy of our paper should be found innocently upon your premises. Nothing could prevent the breaking up of your business and ruining your family from the fourth-fall your life were seen spared.

We have now had some of your anonymous communications upon your views on the question of slavery and have also had some of your letters to Wheeler & Wilson, but as what their motives for inability to prove, we have no idea of being made one of a pick to injure any man's business in this way. Yours, &c.

We have always, as all the world knows, and are labouring with whatever strength and ability God has given us, to promote the cause of the slave. We have also labored to promote the cause of the sewing machine, and ordinarily perform from two to four times as much work as Grover & Baker's. In the same space of time, and require less skill to be satisfied with the result. The swing be thread on Wheeler & Wilson's per annum over Grover & Baker's will pay for two Machines. No crooked under needle is used in Grover & Baker, which is a source of so much delay, perplexity and vexation.

VI.

Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine have received the first and highest premium, over 450, over all Sewing Machines, at all the United States and State Fairs for two years past, wherever they have been contended.

VII.

Wheeler & Wilson's are the best and THE CHEAPEST.

N. B.—Beware of COUNTERFEIT Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine and Hemmer, represented as "great improvements on Wheeler & Wilson's."

The genuine Wheeler & Wilson Sewing MACHINES and NEEDLES cannot be purchased in New Orleans at any other place than at our store,
