A PHENOMENON.

By a statement in the columns of the New York Tribune we learn the astounding fact that the entire circulation of that journal amounts to 290,500 copies, viz: 40,000 daily, 26,500 semi-weekly, 217,000 weekly, and 3500 Parisian. We learn further that within a single month, to wit: from March to April, the gain over the corresponding period last year has been 70,000. The Tribune is received in every State and Territory in the Union, even in the South to no inconsiderable extent. Thus in circulation in Maryland is 500 copies, in Virginia 700, in Kentucky 300, in Tennessee 200, in the District of Columbia 300, in Texas 90, in Louisiana 81, in North Carolina 98, in Alabama 50, in Georgia 93, in South Carolina 36, and in Florida 7, in Arkansas 3. There is no political paper in the United States, nor is there in the world, which equals the aggregate circulation of the New York Tribune.

What are the deductions to be drawn from this remarkable fact? First, undoubtedly, that the Tribune must represent the thoughts, feelings, and in most convictions of a very large proportion of the community, especially in the Northern States. Now the opinions of the editor of such a journal as the N. Y. Tribune are sound by the establishment in the North itself of an organ of moral principles conducted with equal ability, tact and energy. There is no such paper there at this time. There exist, it is true, various exponents of Democracy which to a greater or less extent strive to vindicate the South, but their circulation is limited, and their connection with party renders them liable to suspicion.

The Panorama.—We are glad to announce that the proprietor of this wonderful work of art and triumph of mechanism has consented to exhibit it for one week longer at Armory Hall, commencing this evening. The Panorama is certainly a most beautiful and artistic work of genius and production. The scenery of the East is delineated with perfect accuracy, and by skillful and artistic pencils, while the groups of moving figures, the accessories of storm, thunder, lightning and shipwreck, the tumult and slaughter of battle, the search for the wounded, the burial of the slain, &c., are the result of study and research, and true to nature, that the spectator, absorbed in the contemplation of the scenes, forgets that he is simply beholding mechanical contrivances, and feels the deepest interest in all that passes before his eyes. There are little episodes in the representation, such as the wounded lieutenant and his horse, the woman with a dead child, the fire to the cabins, the search for her husband, the soldiers falling from the rnake during the storming of Delhi, which assume a reality so life-like as completely to delude the imagination and affect the feelings. Every body should go to see the Panopticon.

It will be perceived by the notice elsewhere that an adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the New Orleans and Jackson Railroad will be held this day, at 12 o'clock, at the office of the Company.

NEW ORLEANS STEAM LINE.—We are informed says the Boston Courier, upon the best authority that the subscriptions to the stock of this line have been so liberal as to afford as assurance of success. Delay, however will be of serious injury, and we are requested to say to gentlemen who have not been called upon, and who wish to subscribe, that they will find a subscription book at the rooms of the Board of Trade, No. 36 Merchants Exchange.

NEW WORK.—Messrs. Derby & Jackson, publishers, have sent us, through T. L. White, No. 105 Canal street, a new novel, entitled "How Could He Help It?" or the Heart Triumphant." By A. J. Rae. The proclivities of Mr. Rae are always healthful, manly scenes, interesting in themselves, exhibiting a fine development of character, and calculated to make their readers both thinkers and actors. The work before us is said to be the author's best.

COSMOPOLITAN ART JOURNAL.—The March number of this elegant and well-sustained periodical has been received. It is, as usual, enriched with fine engravings, and contains many articles of a literary and artistic character.

CREDIT SALE.—The particular attention of buyers is called to the large credit sale of French and English dry goods to take place this day, at 10 o'clock, at the auction-room of E. Roger & Co., Nos. 45 and 47 Old Levee street. Terms—One to $200, 90 days' credit.

TEXAS.—We have received Texas papers to the 12th inst. They are almost destitute of interest. The Galveston News announces the arrival in that city of George D. Prentice, the poet, wit and editor. We copy the following from the same paper.

Collision.—The bark Houston, when leaving the port yesterday for Liverpool, came in collision with the bark Horizon, bound for Bremen, doing the latter considerable damage, which compelled her to return for repairs.

MISSOURI.—The Democrats of Missouri have nominated Claiborne F. Jackson for Governor, and Thomas C. Reynolds for Lieutenant Governor. The election takes place on the first Monday in August.

STEAMBOATS PASSING

VICKSBURG, April 16.—The Senator Hannibal passed down at 6, the Col. John C. Fremont at 7, and the Lewis Whiteman at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

The Choctaw passed down at 4, the John Raine and the Gen. John A. Quitman at 10, and the James Johnson at 11 o'clock last night.

The Champion passed down at 1 o'clock this morning.

FURTHER BY THE PERSIA.

We have received various additional items of the news by the Persia, which reached New York on the morning of the 12th inst.

A mixed commission is to determine what Sardinia may add to the public debt of Italy, and to the execution of several public contracts.

Sardinia reserves to herself to finish alone the boring of Mount Cenis.

The treaty will become executive for Sardinia after receiving the sanction of Parliament.

The King of Sardinia had issued a proclamation to the inhabitants of Savoy and Nice from further allegiance.

The Patrie says the French regiments, in returning from Italy, will stop successively at Lombardy and Nice, but that a military occupation will only take place.

The Persia brings no later commercial news than Liverpool, April 1, via Queenstown—The patches from Genoa say Piedmontese troops entered Florence on the 28th. Another division is on the march from Bologna toward Ravenna. The Piedmontese garrison at Nice is about returning to Genoa.

Dispatches from Florence say Prince Carignan, in a proclamation to the Tuscans, tells them the King understands the object of tumultuation to be to unite their sovereign with those of the various states, and has endeavored to dissuade him to the national throne, and that his first resolution is to achieve their happiness by the full extent which their moderation had manifested.

Gazettes from Vienna say the Austrian Cabinet had addressed a note to the Cabinet at Turin, strongly protesting against the annexation of Tuscany, Parma and Modena to Piedmont—maintaining her incontestable right to oppose an act which, in its principle legitimate Princes of the Second granted them by European treaties, will also destroy their right to succession, which these same treaties secured to the House of Hapsburg.

Brazilian March mails had reached Lisbon—News meager. M. Belmio was chosen priest of Brazilian March mails had reached Lisbon—News meager. M. Belmio was chosen priest of Nazareth over Mr. Coffey—vote not known.

From the Rio Grande.

By the arrival of the steamship Arizona we have received Brownsville papers to the 7th inst. The only item of interest they contain is the following, which we extract from the Flag of the latest date:

Important News—Late Movements of the Rio Grande Expedition—Reynosa Threatened.

On Sunday last, the United States and Texas Rains and the Gen. John A Quitman at 10, and the James Johnson at 11 o'clock last night.

The Champion passed down at 1 o'clock this morning.

Cavalry, in pursuance of orders from Colonel Lee, moved from their camps, from twenty five to thirty miles above this city, up the river. Information received from above to-day, (30th) states that on the 4th, seventy of the Texas Rangers entered Reynosa and made a demand of the Alcade for some of Cortina's bandits, who were known to be in that town.

The Alcade refused to deliver them, alleging as a reason that they were his countrymen, and that he did not know whether they were guilty or not.

The Rangers having intimated their intention to take those bandits, unless they were peaceably delivered to them, were assured by the armed multitude that the citizens were ready to repel with arms, even to the death, any attempt that might be made to molest those persons. The Rangers therefore retired to this side. The next day, our forces having been considerably augmented, the commanding officer informed the Mexican authorities that they should have till 11 o'clock of the 6th to deliver the fellows up to them, and that it was not done, any of them were allowed to escape from the town, they would be held responsible.

We learn that there are about four hundred Texas and United States Cavalry at Edinburg, opposite Reynosa.

The citizens of Reynosa have sent to Matamoras for help.

Senor Garcia, a large property holder there, and brother of Gen. Guadaupe Garcia, Commandante at Matamoras, has written a letter expressing a desire to have the affair so arranged that his property in Reynosa will not be endangered.

Reynosa is a strong point, situated on a considerable elevation, and built mostly of stone; it contains something short of two thousand inhabitants.

It was nearly opposite that place that the mail was robbed by eleven of Cortina's men on the 13th of March.

This report comes by way of Matamoras, the road being several hours shorter on that side of the river than on this.

The Rancheri War.—The Vigilance Committee who undertook to expel the Rev. John G. Fee and his associates from Madison county, Kentucky, have published a long statement defending their action, which they base upon the following ground:

Fee and his accomplices—a set of Abolition missionaries sent here principally from the North—had established in a corner of the county, in a sterile and mountainous district, an abolition settlement, with a location the best of any in the State in our judgment for insurrection or stampede—whose influences had already spread and were producing in the minds of the negroes a dissatisfaction among the slaves, evincing itself in the difference in their tasks. The mandoon had since tasks to the lower jaw as well as to the upper, the teeth were smaller and more numerous, and there was a marked difference in the form of the transverse ridges of enamel. Numerous fossil bones of elephants have been discovered in the upper strata in America, but those found in the lower strata in Europe, in the jaw. The first taste of the young animal are sliced like the milk teeth in front, and the subsequent ones are produced by a gradual formation of the substance of the ivory, which, from being pulpy, hardens as it grows. Professor Owen mentioned the circumstance of an iron bullet having been found embedded in the centre of an elephant's tusk without any information how it got there, and said the ball must have lodged in the pulpy part of the tusk when the animal was young, and that the ivory having formed round it in the progress of growth, the ball had been pushed from the root of the tusk to its centre.

Fossil elephants, the remains of which are found abundantly in the upper tertiary strata of England, formed the subject of a lecture delivered in London by Professor Owen. The fossil elephants, or mastodons, found in England are principally distinguished from the living species by their dentition, particularly by the difference in their tusks. The mastodon had two tusks in the lower jaw as well as in the upper, the teeth were smaller and more numerous, and there was a marked difference in the form of the transverse ridges of enamel. Numerous fossil bones of elephants have been discovered in the upper strata in America, but those found in the lower strata in Europe, in the jaw. The first taste of the young animal are sliced like the milk teeth in front, and the subsequent ones are produced by a gradual formation of the substance of the ivory, which, from being pulpy, hardens as it grows. Professor Owen mentioned the circumstance of an iron bullet having been found embedded in the centre of an elephant's tusk without any information how it got there, and said the ball must have lodged in the pulpy part of the tusk when the animal was young, and that the ivory having formed round it in the progress of growth, the ball had been pushed from the root of the tusk to its centre.

The two negroes stolen a white dozen of hams from off the wharf at the New Basin, during Friday night.
