THE DAILY BEE.
PUBLISHED BY
G. F. WHEELER & CO.,
E. DUTILOS. } EDITORS.

Daily Paper, one year (in advance) $12
Weekly Paper, one year (in advance) 5
Invariably in advance. Papers will not be sent unless ordered, or otherwise, will be considered as a subscription, and charged accordingly. Any person receiving this paper through the mail, or carrier, or otherwise, will be considered as a subscriber, and required to pay unless the notice is given of the fact to the office.

NEW ORLEANS:
THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 14, 1860.

SUBSCRIPTIONS BY THE WEEK

The Carriers of THE BEE are authorized to receive subscriptions to our paper, at the rate of 12 cents a week payable in all cases to the carriers themselves.

Sales at Auction To-Day

By F. Rivet & Co., at the Exchange, at 10 o'clock, Real Estate, Furniture and brick store lots, travelling bags, an excursion ticket, &c.

WHAT WILL BE DONE?

The manner in which the future of the Democratic party is involved has not been signified by the proceedings of that small body of Secessionists who call themselves "The Richmond Convention." It appears that as we had foreseen, all the delegates except those representing the ultra and consistent, though wrong headed State of South Carolina, have agreed to post pone action in reference to the Presidency until after the reassembling of the Baltimore Convention and have likewise resolved to go to Baltimore and attend that Convention. They have also provided for assembling in Richmond, if the Committee of the Convention should deem this Convention advisable. This is precisely the course anticipated. The delegates, always excepting those of South Carolina, have followed the mature counsel of the immortal statesmen Congressmen, who have taken up their march for Baltimore, and Monday they will present themselves at the National Democratic Convention, and assume their seats on the plea that they have been duly and indefeasible right to retire and withdraw when and as often as they please. Should the Convention prove sufficiently plastic to this argument, the Bolters will resume their seats on the distinct understanding that they resign there for the purpose of effecting the passage of the majority platform, the rejection of the two thirds rule assigned for their withdrawal. Should they fail in the attempt to induce the Convention to reconsider its policy, surrender its principles, they will once more raise the standard of rebellion, abandon Baltimore, repair again to Richmond, and there adopt a programme and nominate a Southern Presidential candidate. This is a brief outline of the plan proposed by the Seceders.

All the calculations except those representing the secret and consistent, though wrong headed State of South Carolina, have agreed to post pone action in reference to the Presidency until after the reassembling of the Baltimore Convention and have likewise resolved to go to Baltimore and attend that Convention. They have also provided for assembling in Richmond, if the Committee of the Convention should deem this Convention advisable. This is precisely the course anticipated. The delegates, always excepting those of South Carolina, have followed the mature counsel of the immortal statesmen Congressmen, who have taken up their march for Baltimore, and Monday they will present themselves at the National Democratic Convention, and assume their seats on the plea that they have a perfect and indefeasible right to retire and withdraw when and as often as they please. Should the Convention prove sufficiently plastic to this argument, the Bolters will resume their seats on the distinct understanding that they resign there for the purpose of effecting the passage of the majority platform, the rejection of the two thirds rule assigned for their withdrawal. Should they fail in the attempt to induce the Convention to reconsider its policy, surrender its principles, they will once more raise the standard of rebellion, abandon Baltimore, repair again to Richmond, and there adopt a programme and nominate a Southern Presidential candidate. This is a brief outline of the plan proposed by the Seceders.

We presume that the last fatal schemes of the Secessionists have controlled their political prospects. It does not seem to have considered desirable to submit the question of possible secession to the decision