The New Orleans Bee.

NEW ORLEANS: FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 19, 1861.

Office, 73 Chartres street. Vol. XVII—New Series. Vol. XXXIII.—Whole No. 11,962.

NEW ORLEANS:
FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 19, 1861.

The owners of the Bee are authorized to receive subscriptions to our paper, at the rate of $5 a week, payable in all cases to the carriers themselves.

Sales at Auction To-Day.

By O. Lennoxe, Slade & Co., at 10 o'clock, at No. 69 Chartres street, boots, shoes, brogans, saddlery, watches and colored shirts, &c.

By C. E. Foster, at 10 o'clock, in Exchange Alley, a large assorting of gold and silver watches.

The Sheriff sells at auction this day, at 10½ o'clock, A. M., at No. 35 Bourbon street, Second District of this city, a lot of dry goods, &c. See advertisement.

The Present and the Future.

The New York journals of the 13th contain copious telegraphic advices of the progress of the attack on Fort Sumter. Their comments upon this act are of an exceedingly inflammatory character. The New York Courier and Enquirer says that the traitors of South Carolina have inaugurated a war against the Government of the United States, and that without losing a month in idle parleying, our decision to act promptly and vigorously should be signified to the world. The Albany Atlas and Argus says that the time for action has arrived, and that the Administration should not hesitate to use the whole power of the nation to crush out the rebellion. The Boston *Courier