MISCELLANEOUS.

Scrofula, or King's Evil

is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which the fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poisonous. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there any one which may not destroy. The scrofulous habit is variously developed by hereditary disease, bad living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, mercurial diseases, and, above all, the scrofulous infection. While some have it from organic taint, it is hereditary in the constitution of others, and is aggravated by every departure from the laws of health. Even a slight cold, a common inflammation, or the prevalent "break out in the spring," will bring the latent principles of the disease into activity.

Scrofula is more than any disposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and other important organs, is rapidly destructive; in the glands, it is tubercles, sores, ulcers, eruptions of the skin, and diseases of the bones; in the genitora-urinary organs, it is the special cause of more than half the sufferings of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the at-acks of other diseases, consumption and exanthems perish by disorders which would not scrofulous in their nature, yield to relief by the taint to the system. Most of the cutaneous affections which afflict the human family are directly in this scrofulous constitution; in the form of scrofulous diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and lungs, and in other organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

Our system, of all our people are scrofulous; their blood are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by its presence. To eradicate from the system the last vestige of this destructive poison, and to prevent its further development in those not personally affected by it, is the object of the following statement.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds, and the diseases of the digestive organs, this remedy will be found a preparation of iron most successfully be salutary, for, as by the old adage, it is the "iron in the blood that makes it sound and counteracting; and gently, regularly operating on the bowels, it keeps them open, and in a healthy condition, never being cathartic purgative, or inflicting a disappointing reaction.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy in cases, upon which a single dose of a cathartic has a brief and agreeable action, by dispersing the local tendency which it relieves.

In DYSPEPSIA, insurmountable as are its causes, a single box of these Pills has often relieved for a time the most habitual cases, including the attendant Con sumption.

In marked DIARRHŒA, even when advanced to DYSENTERY, continual, nauseating, and apparently unmitigable, the following pills have been equally gratifying and astonishing.

In the local pains, loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent fevers, which generally indicate the INCIPIENT STAGES of CONSUMPTION, they have often effected a cure, when all the arts of friends and physicians had failed, to the great gratification and surprise of the sufferer.

In SCROFULOUS TUBERCULOSIS, the medicated iron has had a power more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of iron, and many of their well known liabilities.

To the afflicted we cannot be too confidently invited to this remedy and restorative in the cases prefacely affecting them.

In RHEUMATISM, both chronic and inflammatory in the latter they are very efficacious, more decidedly—it has been in variably well reported, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, more decidedly—it has been in the swellings and stiffness of the joints and limbs.

In INTERMITTENT FEVERS it must certainly be a great remedy and emergency, as the general use of iron in the new settlements of the West still probably is one of high rents and our fevers.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole Materia Medica which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects upon the appetite, complexion, digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual promotion to the health and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing fifty gilt pills per box; for sale by druggists and dealers, WHOLESALE and RETAIL, by the wholesale agents for the trade, and to whom all orders, letters, etc., should be addressed.
