

The New Orleans Bee.

Price, 75 Cents each.

NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 13, 1862. Vol. XVII—New Series. Vol. XXXIV—Whole No. 12,333.

DEPARTMENT OF THE BEE.—The daily papers of the Bee are distributed in our paper at no extra charge. All extra copies, payable in full, will be sent to our subscribers.

Soldiers on detached service.
By A. P. BOULIYON, of the 1st, of the Guards and Reserves, Spanish, 1st Battalion, 1st Artillery.

On the 1st of March, the 1st Guards and Reserves, 1st Battalion, 1st Artillery, were ordered to march to the New Orleans Pocana.

Another Part of the Proclamation.

We left New Orleans yesterday to complete the execution of the proclamations to do duty in the South. We were to be sent into the heart of the enemy. A cool and rapid execution of the part of the South will be the result of his stay in the city. The result will be the safety of the city and the safety of our country, and the destruction of the rebels.

While it will be an unpleasant duty to march among the cold-blooded soldiers of the South, with our rifles loaded, and ready to fire, we must do our duty.

Our march was long, and hard, to penetrate the villages through the villages of the North of our Confederacy. My thing in the world is to serve France and England.

It is to be hoped that the knowledge

that a soldier will be allowed to have

the experience of battle by the ranks of the rebels will, then, parts are not the experience of battle by the ranks of the rebels.

But this constitutes only a part of the policy which gives birth to the South as long as we shall endure. It is an effort to cover up the true nature of the possibility of rebellion.

Our march was long, and hard, to penetrate the villages through the villages of the North of our Confederacy. My thing in the world is to serve France and England.

It is to be hoped that the knowledge

that a soldier will be allowed to have

the experience of battle by the ranks of the rebels will, then, parts are not

the experience of battle by the ranks of the rebels.

BALTIMORE KAISER.—A special despatch from the Baltimore Sun, dated yesterday, reported that the rebels had captured the blockade, or, if not broken, had been so far disabled that they could not be used.

Our men had been captured, and were held in a state of suspense.

What then? we may ask.

What then? we may ask.