EDUCATION.

FOUNDED 1844.....INCORPORATED 1853

NEW ORLEANS Female Collegiate Institute,

FOR

BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

Under the Supervision of Madame ED. LOCQUET,

(Late Principal of the Collegiate Institute, Second street,)

ASSISTED BY THE MOST EFFICIENT TEACHERS.

THIS establishment, founded by the last Mr. Locquet, whose high reputation has never been surpassed in this city, will open for the reception of pupils on MONDAY, the 12th of September.

Mme. ED. LOCQUET, assisted by her sister, Mme. GRACIEUX LOCQUET, will use her best endeavors to continue to merit the confidence reposed by so many years, in her predecessor.

The services of the highest talent are engaged in addition to the regular corps of teachers, and particularly in the department of the Fine Arts, which will be taught exclusively by Mr. Locquet, whose reputation as professor of drawing has been so well appreciated by the numerous pupils who have received lessons with their present accomplished teacher. The French language, the native tongue of three ladies at the head of the establishment, of which it is now indispensable to be a perfect master, is taught with the utmost care, and in addition to the Latin and German. Young ladies will therefore have the most constant intercourse with those languages, thereby making possible for pupils to acquire a thorough knowledge of them.

The French department, strong in connection and well established, has recently been entirely renovated, and with the utmost regard to the comfort and health of the pupils. Mme. LOCQUET respectfully invites parents and friends to visit the premises, and examine the arrangements, which, in all their information within may be desired, can be had.

Letters of inquiry will be promptly attended to by the Principal. sept 7

ACADEMY

Canal street, No. 128, between Dauphin and Bienville streets.

THIS Academy, founded in 1827, is about to re-open with the assistance of Mr. G. Bayon, professor of the Academy of France in 1815, and of Mr. Jacquelin, professor of the Academy of Rouen in 1821, under the direction of Mr. Gerdy, which has always deserved the confidence of the public. The course of studies will be conducted with the same care, and the pupils will be prepared for their future position in all the branches with the assistance of the Professors. A classical and commercial education will be taught. Particular attention will be paid to the study of the English language, to each person with whom private arrangements can be made. The French will be taught as the instrument suitable to the study of Geometry and Surveying.
