THE MURDER OF CORNER.

English papers received since our article of yesterday, on the subject of the murder of Corner, show that opinion as to the question of the advisability of having a medical man for a juror is by no means settled. Bell's Life in London has the following article in opposition to it, in reference to the case of Dr. Lankester, a vacancy created by the death of the late Mr. Winkley.

The late coroner's office has been one of the most interesting and important of the city. It has been the scene of many a dramatic trial, and has been the theatre of many a remarkable case. The late Mr. Winkley, who was coroner for many years, was a man of high standing and of great ability. He was a man of high standing and of great ability. He was a man of high standing and of great ability.
