“LIEK AND HIS LIQUOR.”
 A work under this title has been written by a person who has obtained an enviable notoriety in the South from his malignant and vulgar personal attacks upon Mr. Jefferson Davis and other leaders of the Confederacy. The author writes in a style which is as crude as the spirit in which it is conceived. The work is a collection of the most vulgar and obscene remarks which have been uttered by this low-down scoundrel since the outbreak of the rebellion. It is a collection of the most vulgar and obscene remarks which have been uttered by this low-down scoundrel since the outbreak of the rebellion. It is a collection of the most vulgar and obscene remarks which have been uttered by this low-down scoundrel since the outbreak of the rebellion.
