NEW ORLEANS:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGT. 4, 1869.

TRY GEORGE ALCESTIS UGARIN,
185—Chartres Street.

CHEAP CITY LOCOMOTION.

We have often wondered why it is that New Orleans is always so late in adopting the improvements which are from time to time brought into use in other large cities. We have been told that there are always fully twelve months behind. Travellers to the North and Europe, especially, much lamented this. We do not know whether it is that we are too used to be compelled to travel, or that we are not used to the style of travel, for that is a matter of little consequence. We abide to it merely by way of illustration. That we are slow in adopting new modes of travel is well known. We had street cars for several years before any one here dreamed of establishing them in New Orleans. We might say that the names of the cars do not come to mind, but it is natural that body will dispose the fact to which we call attention. We have the habit of doing things in a haphazard way.

Dangerous.—The buildings No. 156 and 158 New Orleans street, between Gravier and Notre Dame, were set on fire last evening. The police are inclined to believe that the interesting stranger is what is vulgarly termed a "rogue." He was seen near the scene of the fire, and the man who had visited him, and to whom he spoke, is a note left upon his centre table, which the party who had visited him had been so hospitably entertained, was just enough to satisfy the police that he was not a vagabond, but would leave him unwatched in consequence of his having a good tenor voice, succeeded in charming the police into a belief that he was a respectable person.

The report of the Superintendent of the Fire Department is to the effect that on hand to the 24th inst., $23,367.85 receipts, $24,499.85 total.

Leave of absence was granted Becker for the space of two weeks, and he was ordered to return to the City Treasury more frequently.
