Paste Nov. 25.—Bishop Dupanloup publishes a letter severely criticizing the sentiments expressed by Gambetta in his speech delivered in the Quai d'Orsay.

Indians Nov. 25.—Some shooting occurred at the station.

The shooting has been satisfactorily accounted for.

The Indians are much more numerous than the people among whom they are scattered.

Another political convulsion can probably be expected to work a revolution in the system of administration.

The corruption and frauds committed throughout the country and in the Federal States and other offices, is to be attributed to the lax moral sentiment of the community at large, so that it is difficult to find any honest public officer, for they are mostly apathetic to the welfare of their country.

The same evils applied to numerous corporations and individuals.

In the case of the Bank of England, the secretaries bankruptcy is the inevitable result.

It follows extravagance and dishonesty.

The Bank of England is the most perfect institution in the world.

The people have been thoroughly educated in the principles of honesty.

The Indian trials have been satisfactorily accounted for.
