City of Big Windmills.

Amsterdam, the capital of the Netherlands, is situated at the confluence of the River Amstel and the arm of the Zuyder Zee, called the Y (pronounced eye). It is a forest of lofty windmills in the form of towers, steeples, pyramids, truncated cones and aerial erections, waving their enormous arms and whirling above the roofs like a cloud of monster birds beating their wings over the city...

The Roman Coliseum.

The largest single structure in the world for audience and spectacular purposes is the Coliseum at Rome. It is in the form of an ellipse; its diameter is 615 feet; its short, 511; the height of the outer wall, 164. The arena is 218 feet long by 176 broad. The tiers of seats accommodate 100,000 spectators.

Field Glass Range Finder.

An improved range finder for field glasses has a flat plate, subdivided to correspond with the focus of the glasses, rigidly attached near the rear end of the adjusting screw; a fixed pointer secured near the screw to the frame of the glasses, indicating the adjustment upon a dial. A small wheel upon the adjusting screw turns it so that it will readily focus the glasses for various distances, and enabling the user to also estimate correctly the speed of advancing or withdrawing objects.

The Strongest Chain.

The greatest and strongest chain ever made has but recently left the Tipton Green iron works, England. It is intended for crane work at Chatham wharf, and consists of oval links forged generally of 3 1/2-inch rods, each link being 30 inches long and 1 3/4 wide. Since there was no machinery available for testing a chain of such dimensions, the test was made by actual suspension of a weight of 896,000 pounds from each link.

Graves of the Zulus.

The most curiously decorated graves in the world are the negro graves in Zululand. Some of these mounds are garnished with the bottles of medicine used by the departed in their final illness and the duration of the malady is easily guessed by the number of bottles.

Week-End Holidays.

Londoners cultivate what is called "week-end holidays." They comprise starting away with a grip on Friday to some congenial spot on the coast and remaining until the following Monday or Tuesday. Every Englishman that can takes in addition a three weeks' vacation every year.
