FROG LIVES 30,000 YEARS

The Aged Batrachian Is Dug Out of the Bowels of the Earth. Workmen on the northwestern land tunnel 44 North avenue and Kedzie avenue recently disturbed one day lately the slumber of a frog that, in the estimation of scientists, had been sleeping for at least 30,000 or 30,000 years, says the Chicago Record.

Down in the depth of the earth 90 feet, and 400 feet in the tunnel from the location of the shaft, a blast of powder was shot just before noon. The concussion broke a very large piece of rock and clay into several parts, and in one of these lay the frog. It was brown in color and staid. Supt. William McLaughlin caused the reptile to be brought to the surface and placed in a tub half full of water. There the frog sat all the afternoon and held an informal reception for hundreds of school children and visitors from Humboldt park.
