

JOCKS WHO RIDE FOR BIG STABLES

By JACK VEIOCK,
International News Sports Editor.

New York, May 28.—Owners of thoroughbred race horses spend many thousands of dollars every year as retainers for the jockeys. They lay out their fat rolls of perfectly good currency before a race is run, and the fact that they do this seems to offset the old saying that great horses make great jockeys.

The season of 1917 in the East, despite the war, gives promise of being a highly successful one, for the classics that have already been run have met with unusual success, and the real blue ribbon events are yet to come.

Among the jockeys who will straddle the bluebloods of the turf in the East this season are the cream of the country. The jockey market is good, to say the least, and some of them are just as prominent under present conditions as were the great jockeys of the past.

Like Johnny Reff, Danny Maher, Ted Sloan, Eddie Dominich and J. B. Borden, the topnotch jockeys of the present day draw down thousands of dollars annually for their services. Prominent among the present-day jockeys who will ride in the East this year are Tommy McTaggart, Jimmy Butwell, Joey N. Tetter, Joe Payne, Johnny Loftis and Andy Shuttlinger.

McTaggart was the last of the veteran jockeys to find a berth, for the reason that he held out for big money until the right owner came along. He will ride under the colors of John Saffel, and he will get in the neighborhood of $200 monthly for piloting Sanford's horses. His brother, Johnny McTaggart, will ride this year for R. T. Wilson, Jr. The younger McTaggart was a big success last year. He rode Gampré to his two-year-old title and was astraddle Belmont's Friar Rock in the final victory of the Saratoga cup.

Jimmy Butwell, who is also in the veteran class, will wear the silks of August Belmont. Prior to the opening of the season he worked a number of Belmont's nags under Trainer Sam Hildreth's direction, and is expected to ride home the winners in a number of good races.

Tommy Davies, who has ridden many winners, including Flying Fairy, will ride for James Butler, who has what is considered a great string of runners.

Harry Payne Whitney, one of the most prominent owners of thoroughbreds in the country, has engaged Frankie Robinson to ride his entries. Robinson developed into a stellar rider on the winter tracks and has a great year ahead of him. Joe Natter will also ride Whitney's horses, and although he is said to be getting a little heavy for everyday riding, Whitney has a word of confidence in his ability.

The Macomber stable, regarded as one of the strongest of the year in the East, will depend largely on Johnny Loftis to pilot home the winners. Joe Payne will ride for Patterson and Sturges. Burlingame, Rowan and McGaw have been engaged by the Quincy stable, and Andy Shuttlinger will ride the

COLLEGE HEADS FAVOR SPORTS

New York, May 28.—Following the discontinuance of athletics in nearly every college and university of prominence in the country, heads of representative schools indicated a change of sentiment, and favor resumption of sports.

In response to queries deans of colleges and universities in every section of the country have replied, with only a few exceptions, that they believe abandonment of athletics is a mistake.

The questions were asked of the deans:

"Do you believe athletics in the universities and colleges in this country should be resumed after the first draft for troops is completed?"

"Do you believe athletic training is helpful to military training?"

The first question received a chorus of "ayes."

The second question received even more replies in the affirmative.

Arthur Holson Quinn, dean of the University of Pennsylvania, wrote a strong recommendation for sports. At Pennsylvania efforts are being made as at no other school to keep athletics alive. It is the only Eastern college of prominence where preparations are being made to play a football schedule next fall.

WHOLESALE TRAVELERS MEET TO ELECT OFFICERS

Officers for the next twelve months will be elected at the meeting of the Wholesale Travelers at the Gramercy Saturday night, J. C. Mayo, one of the members of the association will deliver an address. Among those who will take part in the meeting are the following: E. J. Zafarain, J. J. Raphael, C. Ruiz, L. H. Rivera, J. E. Rojina, A. Saffler, C. F. Theard, L. E. Tyler, J. Walbroette, E. G. Walsh, W. R. Bonafon, E. M. Whitmore, J. R. McSwaney, M. J. Dazit, H. L. Pitcher, M. A. Post, H. E. Raymond, D. E. Lacey, B. F. Foley and Emile Hing.

horses of the Wyckoff stable, owned by Corrigan and McKinney. Roscoe Troxler, who is said to improve with age, is to ride the horses of P. A. Clarke. Troxler is rated as one of the greatest of post riders, especially on two-year-olds.

With such an array of talent on Eastern tracks, some of the most sensational riding in many a season is predicted by the wise ones.

The loss of Carl Weidman, one of the best southpaws in baseball, was a hard blow to Fielder Jones and the St. Louis Browns.

Weidman was forced to quit pitching because of an ailing kidney, and though he stuck until the middle of May in hopes that he might overcome his illness, he was finally forced to turn in his uniform and go to his home for an operation.

Weidman tried to do his share on the mound for the Browns this spring, and worked in a few games, but owing to his illness was not highly effective. Last year he ranked tenth among the pitchers of the American League in effectiveness, working in forty-six games of ball for Fielder Jones. He won eighteen games for the Browns and is credited with losing a like number, though many of the games he lost went against him by narrow margins.

NO SUNDAY BALL IN PHILA.

Would Take Legislative Session to Permit It
Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.—Sunday baseball cannot be played in Philadelphia—even if the gate receipts are turned over to Uncle Sam's war chest—unless the Pennsylvania Legislature amends a city ordinance, officials stated here.

This ordinance prohibits baseball being played if admission is charged. The big league's suggestion for using this as a means to help swell the national treasury box is being studied by officials.

They could not say "offhand" if it was stated whether the law could be evaded by letting the people in free and trusting to them for liberal donations.

FOLLOW POLICY OF THE FOUNDERS

WHO SOUGHT TO HELP CAUSE OF PEOPLE'S RULE

HAD WORLD-VIEW OF EVENTS

If We Allow Democracy to Fail Now, We Will Never Have Another Opportunity

By International News Service.
Long Beach, N. Y., May 28.—"Should the cause of imperialism, by any chance, win this war, the people of the United States would find it quite unnecessary for some time to come to concern themselves with foreign relations and with foreign policy. Those matters would be taken care of for them."

This was the warning sounded here tonight by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, in opening the conference on foreign relations called by the New York Academy of Political Science, which will continue five days, with many distinguished leaders of the nation taking part.

Clearly and powerfully, President Butler outlined the object of the conference, which is the beginning of a nation-wide campaign of education in foreign affairs. He said in part:

"For two generations it has been a common complaint that the people of the United States took no adequate interest in foreign policy and were without any but cursory knowledge of international politics.

"One need have but slight acquaintance with the writings and speeches of the fathers and with the records of the early Congresses to know that, when the government of the United States was young, it was the eager ambition of those who most fully represented it to play a large part in the international life of the world, primarily with the view of advancing those ideas and those principles in which the people of the new American republic believed and to which they were committed.

"Benjamin Franklin was our first great internationalist. Alexander Hamilton, of whom Talleyrand said that he had divined Europe; Thomas Jefferson, whose public service in Europe was quite exceptional, as well as Chancellor Livingston, John Jay, Charles Cotesworth, Pinckney, John Quincy Adams and Henry Clay not only knew Western Europe, but were known by it. In making endeavor, therefore, to increase the interest of the American people in foreign relationships and in international policy we are but asking them to return to one of the finest and soundest of national traditions.

"The conference which now assembles to consider and discuss the international relations and the international policies of the United States is a beginning and only a beginning of a campaign of education and enlightenment which is to continue until there has been developed among all parts and sections of our land what I ventured some years ago to describe as the 'international mind.'

"The international mind is nothing else than that habit of thinking of foreign relations and business, and the habit of dealing with them which regards the several nations of the civilized world as free and co-operating equals in aiding the progress of civilization, in developing commerce and industry and in spreading enlightenment and culture throughout the world. It would be as inconsistent with the international mind to attempt to steal some other nation's territory or to do that nation an unprovoked injury or damage as it would be inconsistent with the principles of ordinary morality to attempt to steal some other individual's purse or to commit an unprovoked assault upon him.

"The international mind is not consonant with any theory of the state which regards the state as superior to the rules and restrictions of moral conduct or which admits the view that to some one state is committed the hegemony of the world's affairs for the world's good.

"When that doctrine prevails and takes hold of the conviction and the imagination of a great people, an issue is presented that cannot be settled by vote in conference, that cannot be arbitrated by the wisest statesmen and that cannot be determined by the findings of any court.

"Therefore, resort must be had to armed force. It is to determine this issue that the world is now at war.

"Should the cause of imperialism, by any chance, win this war, the people of the United States would find it quite unnecessary for some time to come to concern themselves with foreign relations and with foreign policy. Those matters would be taken care of for them by a power that had shown itself strong

MANGRUM LASTED ONLY FIVE ROUNDS

Jack Russo knocked out Billy Mangrum in the fifth round of what was to have been a 15-round bout at the Tulane Athletic club last night. Russo's victory, however, was not a particularly sensational one, as it was the opinion of most of those present that Mangrum could have put up a better fight if he had wanted to.

The only real scrapping was in the first inning. In the second and third the two men exchanged blows without any material damage being inflicted, and in the fourth Mangrum covered up. Russo's weak point as a fighter seems to be that he sticks his tongue out too often. Some day an opponent on his chin is likely to abbreviate the tongue considerably.

Young Laporte got a decision in second round of a preliminary bout over Patsy, the Wild-cat. The second preliminary between Young Russo and Wild-cat Martin was called a draw, although Russo had the advantage in three rounds, and apparently the best of the fight. The third preliminary, between Al Gruntz, a beginner at the game, and Young Herman, resulted in a decision for Gruntz, who surprised the fans.

Jack Pillsbury did the announcing. Happy Littlebel refereed the preliminaries, and Sammy Goldman the main bout. The crowd numbered about 800.

ANOTHER BOUT FOR HERMAN

Bantam Weight Champion Will Box Ritchie in Davenport
Chicago, May 28.—Pete Herman, bantam weight champion, was matched for a 10-round bout with Johnny Ritchie of Chicago at Davenport, Ia., June 7, it was announced today. They will make 117 pounds. Bryan Downey and Goat-Doig, welterweights, were matched for 10 rounds on the same date before a downstate club.

FOREIGN TRADE SCHOOLS

Will Be Well Patronized by New Orleans Business Men
Many business men of New Orleans already have enrolled in the foreign trade school which shortly will be opened by the foreign trade department of the Association of Commerce. Dr. E. E. Pratt's books will be used as the text books. He is the head of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce at Washington.

Book work will be supplemented by lectures to be held during the six months duration of the course. It is expected that manufacturers, importers and exporters will profit much by the instruction to be given.

FLAG RAISING ON DRYADES

Live Uptown Business Community Stages Patriotic Event
Members of the Dryades Carnival company will hold a flag raising ceremony this afternoon at the Dryades market. The flag will be one of the largest in the city, and it will be raised on the tallest flagpole in New Orleans. One hundred soldiers will fire a salute when the flag is unfurled.

George H. Terribile will be master of ceremonies. Mayor Behrman, Colonel Frank Stubbs, W. O. Har, Rev. Gordon Bakewell and Judge J. J. Forzary will make patriotic addresses.

SUICIDE BY HANGING

Fearing Blindness, Charles J. Vailot Ends His Life
Charles J. Vailot, 61, 817 North Roman street, committed suicide yesterday by hanging. He tied a rope around his neck, mounted a chair and fastened the other end to a transom. Then he kicked the chair from under him and a few minutes later was dead.

Relatives believe the aged man killed himself because he feared blindness. He was alone in the house at the time. Charles J. Vailot, Jr., a son, of 912 Fern street, found his dead body dangling from the rope when he went to visit him.

enough to overcome and to suppress the internationally minded men and nations.

"On the other hand, if, as we confidently hope and believe, the issue of this war is to be favorable to the free, self-governing democracies of the world, then the people of the United States must address themselves with redoubled energy and with closest attention to these matters of legislation, of administration and of general public policy which constitute and determine national conduct.

"We are assembled, then, to help to begin a movement which must not cease until the entire American people are interested in their international relationships, their international position and their international influence."
