N.Y. GIRLS TAKE TO BOGUS OFFICERS

By International News Service.

New York, May 29 .- At least five engaging and handsome young men with Piceadilly accents and British For near-British) uniforms are in-· festing our best clubs and winning the hearts of pretty damsels in our wheat acciety.

The exposure of "Lieutenant Commander George Ellis Stuart of the British commission," right after his engagement to Miss Katherine Milwiler of Flushing, Long Island, was announced has not stopped the operations of the other five. They cornament Broadway cabarets, borrow and forget to repay and tell . Their interesting and heroic tales of service abroad as they have been hadoing these many days.

Meanwhile American and British carmy and navy men here have to grit their teeth and do nothing. There is a strict law against impersonating an American officer or wearing a uniform of a United States service without authorizaation. But it is no crime or misdemeanor, it seems, to masquerade as a foreign fighting man.

An English naval officer said today one of the bogus officers is paying court to a young woman of high social standing and seems to stand a fair chance of winning her only as soon as the engagement is announced the British consulate will expose him, as it did young "Mr. Stuart," and then the dashing fraud will have to transfer his operations to some other city.

So far as "Stuart" is concerned, it was learned, his sole indictable offense was against the Hotel Martinique, which has only a sword, made in Philadelphia, and a blue uniform to offset a bill of $220. The hotel management, it is understood. is not making any effort to appre-'hend him, and so he is free to wear a new uniform and new armament in some other city.

The British consulate realizes That these men are injuring the standing of hundreds of genuine British officers now in this country, and so far as it is within its power the consulate is discouraging their operations. But the young men are clever, and borrowing from an American ally is no crime, especially if it develops that one's worn by a bona fide British soldierior vailur.

Increased Prices May Gause Deficit of $45,000

A deficit of $45,000 will face the Charity Hospital this year, according to the report of the financial committee made at an adjourned meeting held Monday night. The advancing cost of commodities is given as a reason. In this connection it was pointed out that gauze which once cost $1.90 now costs $4,000 alone on the cost of the avenue, $2,000; cash. amount used in the hospital.

PROCESS OF REGISTRATION IS SIMPLE AND EASILY PERFORMED

Registration day is June 5.

Homesteal Association, portion, not laborious, involved or complex. In a bulletin called "How to Answer Questions on Registration Brown, and has given him instruc- or any of his fellows on June 5, bewhich will be put to him by the registrar on the day when he appears to have his name enrolled or the prospective army lists.

So let us take Samuel L. Brown on the carly morning of registration day and guide him through his dufies from the time he enters the] registration place until the record is completed and he goes about his ordinary day's work,

The first thing which young Brown will be asked to do, is to state his name in full and his age in years. This means that Brown is to give in full his first, middle and last name. When it comes to the giving of his age, young Brown will give it in years, ignoring months. weeks and days. If, on his last birthday, he was twenty-four years of age, the registrar will enter 'twenty-four years" upon the registration card.

Young Brown will be asked to give his address. He must give it in full so that there can be no mistake possible. He should give the street, its number, village or city, and the county and state in which he lives.

While the age is to be given in years only, Brown will be asked to give his birthday, the day of the month and the year in which he first saw light.

It would be well for young Brown, if he has any possible reason for doubt in the matter, to inform himself specifically before going to the registration place as to just what his condition in life is, as it relates to citizenship. If he is native born, his inquiry should not go any further, He should inform himself concerning his status in case he were born in a foreign country. It may be that his parents have not become naturalized citizens of the United States, or it may be that his father has only taken out his first papers. A clear understanding the citizenship status is essential.

Of course, there will be many young Browns in the United States who are not native to the soil and who have not taken out their nat uralization papers, and whose parents perhaps still are aliens. In cases like this special inquiry will be made by the registrar to determine just what the status is under the laws governing the question relating to aliens. Young Brown will be asked what his present trade, occupation or office is. He should make his answer brief, "farmer," "miner" or whatever line of husiness he follows. He should add the exact nature of his occupation, whether or not he is employed in a machine shop, an automobile factory or other indus-

If it should be that Brown is an officer of the state or federal government he should so state, name his office and say whether it is under state or federa! government.

One of the questions which Brown is to answer carefully and thoughtfully is that which relates to the question of dependents. He will be asked if he has a father or mother. a wife or child under twelve years of age, or a sister or brother under the same age solely dependent upon him for support.

When the young man is asked if he is married or single the answer must concern itself with his present condition. The question means, are you married now?

No young man, between 21 and 30, inclusive, Samuel L. Brown, or any of his fellows, is exempt from the duty of registration unless he is serving in the United States army or navy, or in that part of the nati, nal guard or naval militia which on registration day is in the federal service, or unless he is an officer in the officers' reserve corps or an onlisted man in the enlisted reserve corps in active service. In connection with this military service matter, young Brown wift be asked if he ever has had any kind of military service whatsoever. He must be specific in answering these questions.

Do you claim exemption from draft? This question will be asked of young Brown. If he says you, he must give his reasons briefly and in words that cannot be mistaken. This is not his final claim of exemption. He will have ample opporframe-stated residence, 429 Tele- tunify to make that later. The question is simply to give the government statistical information. It should be understood by all young frameslated residences 1312 and 1316 men that they are not exempt from registration because they happen to which exemption may be made, What does a young man do on Registration is one thing and exregistration day? He does his dury emption is another. All men beto his country, and he will find that I tween the ages fixed in the law must the ways and means of doing it are register, with the few exceptions named above. There is nothing formidable to confront Samuel L. Brown on reg-Cards" the war department has con-listration day. Petrograd, May 129.-America's potent influence is being utilized by the new Russian government in its crucial campaign now on to spur the Russian army into fighting, American Ambassador David R. Francis personally is addressing Russian troops and scores of assemblages of the plain people. He is working in closest co-operation with Minister of War Kerenskythe "Lloyd George of Russia"-in stirring the army to action. Kerensky regarls this campaign of fighting as his foremost duty Yesterday he addressed nine regiments of Russian troops in the Petrograd district - nine separate speeches. This afternoon he leaves for the front for a round of addresses to the men in the trenches. General Alexieff, commander-inchief of the army, is being utilized in this campaign.' He will make several speeches. Yesterday he talked to a big assembly of officers at general headquarters.

Francis is giving a living embodiment of the "shirt sleeve diplomat." constantly working. He is the most popular of all diplomats in Russia and his voice among the most notent of those now being raised to help Russia save itself. He is deluged daily with appeals for speeches-mostly to troops-and is accepting every one. In all of these talks the American envoy drives home the brotherhold in democracy of Russia and America, and concludes:

"New Russia and the United States entered the war practically simultaneously, The United States stands ready to help an aggressive
