THE BUGABOO FACTORY

Exhaustive investigations by the department of justice, according to official announcement, has shown that the Industrial Workers of the World who are creating trouble in the West are not being financed by German money. They are financing themselves.

It has also been discovered that the strike in the lead mines of Missouri was not an I. W. W. movement at all. They had nothing to do with it. It was, on the contrary, a "patriotic American movement," designed to run out of the district all foreign-born workers and their families.

No sooner is one falsehood contradicted, however, than another equally ridiculous is set afloat. Up in Eastern Oregon, a ranchman who has been selling horses to the government has lost a number of heads of stock. The neighborhood is being scoured for "German agents" who are supposed to have poisoned them. Federal officials are also working on clues in central Kansas where peddlars have been selling court plaster. It is "suspected," that the court plaster was distributed by "German agents" and that it contains germs of tetanus. Rangoon beans have also been shipped into this country which are not fit for human consumption. Of course, it's a conspiracy; it could not be due to the rapacious food robbers who would take any chance in order to get the dollars.

This continual succession of false stories, a new one following, as the old one is proven false, betokens a carefully-carried-on propaganda to nourish hatred in this country for the people of Germany, and which could easily be extended to Americans bearing foreign names. We were at peace with Germany until recently, and hope to be again at peace with her in the near future. After peace is declared the United States and Germany will still exist in the same world.

It is well for us to consider if this propaganda of hate is carried on for the benefit or the injury of our own country.

Three new candidates for governor have been evolved by the political dopsters at Baton Rouge. Previous nominations during the brief session include Senator E. M. Stafford, Justice O'Neil, Dr. Oscar Dowling, L. E. Thomas, John H. Overton, Col. Frank P. Stubbs, Delos Johnson and Lieutenant Governor Mouton. If anybody was mentioning politics in Baton Rouge, you understand, the list would probably be much longer.

Former Emperor Nicholas says he has about $500,000 of his own money and is willing to buy Russian Liberty bonds with part of it if Russia is going to contribute to the support of his family. If he is out of a job permanently and is not going to get a pension, Nick will hold on to his rubles. His attitude reflects that of our patriotic National Capital on the subject of Liberty Loan bonds.

The man who tried to run a daily newspaper in Chicago without advertising, and who found out that the more subscribers he had the more money he lost, has quit the game and enlisted for war service. The change should be an agreeable one to him, even if he stands in the front trenches.

Col. Roosevelt has emerged in the limelight again to denounce the mayor of Elizabeth, N. J., who refused to accept a flag presented to the city because the orator abused the people of Germany. The colonel evidently does not subscribe to the doctrine that we have no quarrel with the German people.

Up to the present writing, Alexandria has successfully concealed any enthusiasm it may have felt over the news that a negro regiment from New York will form part of the force at the training camp.

In his speech to the German Reichstag, the new Chancellor, Dr. George Michaelis is reported as saying that Germany would not continue the war a day longer if it could obtain an honorable peace.

Newspaper headlines are busy announcing that Germany wants peace. If Germany wants peace, there is no obstacle so far as known in the way of peace. All of the nations contending against her are anxious for peace. If any of them desire to continue the slaughter of its own men to gain territory or money, they should be allowed to go on by themselves. With death reaping its record toll from the war and the world on the brink of starvation, no government would dare urge its people to continue the war a moment longer than self-preservation requires it.

Frank Wyant of Kansas City didn't "believe in banks." Sunday while his house was vacant, somebody broke in, took up the floor and made off with $1,500, the savings of a lifetime, which he had concealed thereunder. The man who hides his money away instead of putting it in bank not only damages the community he lives in but hurts himself in the long run.

After picturing Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg for three years as the iron-handed foe to peace, the relentless apostle of kultur, London now wants us to believe that he was fired out of office because of his pacifist inclinations. We are always anxious to accommodate our allies but the cablegrams from London at times test our credulity.

The sixteen suffragists who were sent to the workhouse at Washington for obstructing the sidewalk when they displayed a banner before the White House, bearing the words "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," were pardoned by the president after two days enforced association with vile women, white and black. It is announced that clemency was extended "on account of the families of some of them."

The new cabinet of the little Chinese emperor had the hardest luck of all. They found themselves in jail as traitors before their first week's salaries fell due.

Pekin is announced to be surrounded by sixty thousand republicans intent on gaining possession. This would be a good time for Gen. Chang Hsun to sneak out the back way.

A safe rule for war time: If you must talk about the war, be sure to say the right things.

LOUISIANA CONDENSED.

Eight striking section men on the M. P. have been held for the grand jury at Monroe on charge of conspiracy. A special grand jury will be empaneled Monday.

Lake Charles is having a special audit of its books made for the past four years.

W. D. Waldrit, aged 65, was killed at Alexandria by falling from the second story gallery of a local hotel.

The contract has been let for a new building for the First Presbyterian church at Lake Charles. The building will cost $25,165.

Hammond reports a partial failure of the cucumber crop. The Roberts-Wigand Pickle Co. of New Orleans expected 20,000 bushels from 300 acres and got only 6,000 bushels.

The Natchitoches Commercial association elected Sidney Kuffie president and E. L. McClung, Jr., secretary and treasurer this week.

Recent rains have benefited the crops in southwest Louisiana but have not driven the salt water out of the bayous.

In a wreck on the Louisiana and Northwestern, near Homer Wednesday, nine passengers were injured, two seriously.

Mrs. Robert Higdon, of Columbia, has disappeared from home.

Sheriff C. J. Yarbrough of St. Helena captured his nephew Claud Holmes who escaped from Angola while serving a life sentence, and took him back to prison.

Dr. Stafford, superintendent of the Charity Hospital is trying to locate state land convenient to New Orleans where a country home for convalescents might be maintained.

Dr. A. W. Turner, state anti-saloon superintendent, says Louisiana must be made tick free and liquor-free.

A new test well has been started in the old Jennings oil field, a famous producing field of 12 years ago.

Several children from Alexandria, who were bitten by a dog, have been sent to New Orleans.

The work of preparing to build the big cantonment near Alexandria is to be speeded up.

Friday of next week will be Co. G. day in Bogalusa.

A recall petition is out against George Thurber, commissioner of public safety at Shreveport.

Shreveport Rotary club is raising $1,000 toward the "chaplain's equipment fund" of the First regiment.

James J. Ezell, accused of the murder of his step father, drew a hung jury at Covington. It is rumored that there were eleven obstinate men who wanted to acquit him.

Augustus Ruffles, known to the fistie world as "Cyclone Smith" is in jail at Plaquemine, charged with stealing from a New Orleans firm an automobile which he was trying to sell when arrested.

ATTRACTIVE BILL AT EMPIRE TO-DAY

The laughable skit, "School Days," is to be the vaudeville bill today at the Empire theatre. Paul Serpa and Chuck Connors, the featured comedians, and a bunch of pretty chorus girls in novel and original costumes will sing all the latest song hits, while the Empire Jazz orchestra, now a permanent feature at the Empire, will furnish the music.

The pictures will include Charlie Chaplin in a two-reel scream and other carefully selected dramatic reels. Mary Pickford in a two-reel Broadway star feature, which affords every opportunity for the display of all the charms of "America's Sweetheart," will be the main feature.

The vaudeville program will boast of two headliners, Collins Butler, whose recent successes in New York were remarkable, will be seen in a song act, and Miss Chitten, the talented young lady whose magnetic personality and attractive appearance makes her an instant favorite at every show.

SON MISSING; PHOTO SHOWS HIM IN FRANCE

Follansbee, W. Va., July 21.—A photograph in a newspaper of a transport loaded with troops leaving an American port for France furnished Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas of this place, with the first information that their son, Garfield, nineteen, was with General Pershing's forces. Young Thomas enlisted in the regulars several months ago and his whereabouts was unknown to the parents.

ALL ELEVEN IN THE WAR

Cambridge, Mass., July 21.—Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of the Harvard Athletic association, announced that the varsity football schedule for next season has been canceled because of the war. A statement published recently showed that every man on the eleven last fall was in some branch of the war service.
