FROM TAMPICO.

The schooler George H. Witter, capain Delvaille, arrived vosterday morning from Tampico, whence she saided on the 31st July. The Wetter brings no intelligence of importance. Every thing was quiet in Tampico, and commerce had resumed its wonted activity. One hundred and twenty-five thousand dellars in the Wetter brings and the said of the taits. One hundred and twenty-five thousand deliars in specie was brought by the Wetter, consigned to various connected houses in this city.

The brig Rebecca, from Liverpool, was seized at Tampeo, by the Mexican government, and sold to the capain of the Wetter. She was to have sailed for New Orleans on the 4th inst. This intelligence we find stated on the bull-tin board of the Merchanis' Exchange. On the other hand, the Courier of last evening says that the Rebecca sailed from Tampico on the 28th July with 263 500 Jolfars in specie on the 28th July with 263 500 Jolfars in specie on Description of the sea, "all the lady to her waiting maid," and knowest nothing of that dread toosdiness which estates on the spirit, when the last hosdiands have disappeared, and one wide waste of tunustiones waters are heaving around, bounded only by the dull evening sky. Thou hast not felt that might dread, which overwhelms the timid wayfarer en the ocean, who watches the little skip stagger from were to wave, or heard the shrill wind singing through her cordage, until the masts bend like a reed in the storm. Then hast not looked on the pathless waters, where nothing moved but the black hull on which we stend, and the soiling mountains of waves, the anadlest of which might close over the bark forever, and leave not a restige to tell that ought living ever glided above those depths. But more, thou never halst one whom thou didd love clearer than thine own life, journeying ower those perious paths, and thou far away, dreaming of the death to which he is exposed, or pining to be a partaker of his dangers." has General Lemus was in command of 2000 Federalists at Monteless on the 27th uit, and intended to march to Monterey and attack Canalizo, whose forces were interior to those of Lemus.
